BOOM &

Alfie Allen, Shazad Latif and Samira Wiley star in a new thriller about smugglers carrying explosive uranium

NEW THRILLER

Atomic

Thursday, 9pm & 10pm, Sky Atlantic & Sky Showcase

A drug smuggler on his way from North Africa to the Middle East picks up an unexpected companion and some highly volatile cargo in Sky's new thriller Atomic.

The five-part series stars Game of Thrones' Alfie Allen as Max, a British criminal working for a cartel, whose luck seems to have run out when he's stopped by a group of armed militants in the middle of the desert. However, Max's life is unexpectedly spared when one of the gunmen, JJ (Nautilus' Shazad Latif), shoots the others and orders Max to drive him away.

In desperate need of money and with nowhere else to turn, the pair decide to complete a job for Max's boss. But they're unaware that they're actually transporting highly enriched uranium – which has put them on the radar of CIA agent Cassie Elliott (The Handmaid's Tale's Samira Wiley).

Here, Allen, 38, and Latif, 37, reveal what's in store…

How would you describe the series?

Allen Atomic is about Max and JJ, who form an unlikely friendship. They come into possession of some highly dangerous uranium, capable of making a nuclear bomb, and are swept up into a chaotic mission that they never agreed to.

Latif It's a character-driven action adventure – it's got heart and wit, and it's got a very British element to it, even though it's taking place in the Middle East and Africa. Really, at the heart of it, it's a road movie about these two guys who are trying to find redemption.

What's the relationship like between Max and JJ when they first pair up?

Latif They don't like each other immediately, but they realise they need each other. JJ doesn't give a lot away – this is a character who doesn't even reveal his name until the last episode. He's obviously got a haunted past.

Allen Max is the chalk to JJ's cheese. He's an idealist who wears his heart on his sleeve, and he's pushing for connection, even when it's unwelcome. They start off unsure of each other's motives, but they gradually form a bond.

How does having Cassie on their tail affect them?

Latif Cassie's a highly skilled scientist who's also a non-official cover agent [working under an assumed identity that hides their ties to the agency] with the CIA, and she's there to stop terrorists from taking bombs. When she finds them, they've been at a rave and JJ has dropped a pill by accident – he's a religious man, so it's quite a shock to him. Cassie is constantly chasing our characters. We ran a lot together – it was like we were jogging partners!

BUST

Max finds himself with few options

What training did you undergo for this show?

Allen Training and getting ready for all the stunts at the beginning was amazing. I really like driving, and it was great to get in the cars and start whipping them about and have the stunt drivers go, 'Hey, we don't need to teach you anything.'

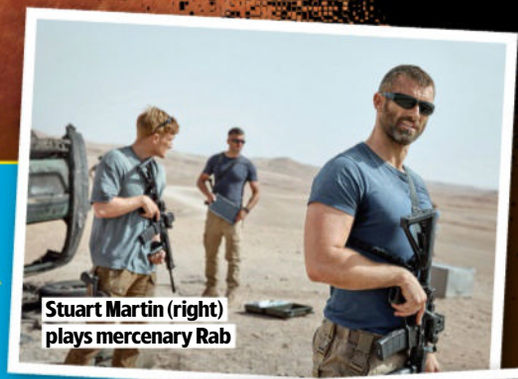
Latif I enjoyed all of it. I grew up watching action movies like Predator and Demolition Man, so it's a joy to be able to do stuff like that as an adult. The gun training was great – I'd never really handled machine guns or pistols before, but everything was really seriously taken care of. You have to look like you know what you're doing.

The two of you share a lot of scenes together across the series. Did you enjoy acting together?

Allen Working with Shazad has been amazing. We've been very, very fortunate to have a buddy-journey project where you get along with your co-star. I feel blessed to be able to work with him because it's very fun.

Latif I'd never worked with Alfie before, but as soon as we realised we were both football fans, that was the connector. The men's Euros were on when we were filming, so that was a nice decompressor at the end of the day.

HEAT OF THE MOMENT



Stuart Martin (right) plays mercenary Rab

Although the series is set in a variety of locations across North Africa and the Middle East, filming for Atomic took place entirely in Morocco. But while the cast enjoyed the spectacular scenery, there was one element that they found very difficult – the intense heat...

'We had some pretty harsh conditions to shoot in,' recalls Allen. 'The toughest day was when we shot in Palmyra, when it was like 44 degrees.'

'Me and Alfie had to get a giant fan put in the tent straightaway, because otherwise we were just going to explode or melt,' adds Latif. 'But it put us exactly in the frame of mind that our characters are going through. You just have to buy into it, bring some spare pants, and think to yourself, "OK, I'm going to be sweaty for 10 hours and then I'm going to go and have a shower!"'

NEW DRAMA

King & Conqueror

Sunday, 9.10pm, & Monday, 9.30pm, BBC1 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

William of Normandy

On 14 October 1066, the armies of King Harold and William, Duke of Normandy, met on a muddy field just outside Hastings for a battle that would become one of the most famous chapters in English history.

Edith and Harold

Every schoolchild is taught how Harold was killed after being struck by an arrow in his eye, as William's victory defined the future of England for the next thousand years. Now, eight-part series King & Conqueror transports us back to the beginning of that bitter struggle between the two dynasties.

'We started talking about the idea for this show seven or eight years ago,' reveals Grantchester star James Norton, who plays Harold. 'My first reaction was, "How has this story not been told before on TV or film?" It has defined so much of our culture, politics and law – the fabric of this country. I remember being constantly surprised reading the scripts and thinking, "Did this really happen?" But it did!'

The series, which kicks off with two episodes this week, begins in 1042 as a decade of fighting between Anglo-Saxon England's most powerful houses comes to an end when Edward the Confessor (Eddie Marsan) is crowned King. His accession to the throne is agreed to by a handful of noblemen, including Harold's father, Godwin, Earl of Wessex (Geoff Bell), who believes that he has built a strong alliance with the royal house.

KINDRED SPIRITS?

Meanwhile, across the English Channel, William, Duke of Normandy (Nikolaj Coster-Waldau), is vying for power in a dispute between France's feudal lords when he's invited to London to attend Edward's coronation, where he meets Harold for the first time.

'It's such a compelling story about these two men,' says Coster-Waldau, who played Jaime Lannister in Game of Thrones. 'I didn't know anything about this history, and once I started doing my research, I was surprised by how great the influence of the Normans and the Vikings was at that time.'

When William arrives in London, he meets Edward's domineering mother, Lady Emma (Juliet Stevenson), who hails from Normandy and harbours a deep resentment towards the House of Wessex, making it clear that she sees William as the future King. However, there's a bond between Harold and William.

'The two men were kindred spirits in this new generation of leaders in Europe,' says Norton, 40. 'They actually fought alongside each other, as brothers in arms, in Normandy – only for the friendship to be reversed by the time they reached the Battle of Hastings.'

INFLUENTIAL

Harold and William's respective wives, Edith (Emily Beecham) and Matilda (Clémence Poésy), also play key roles as their husbands rise through society.

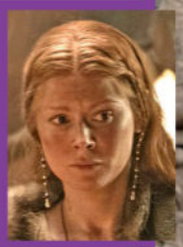
'We realised very early on that this wasn't a story about two men, this was a story about two couples,' says Norton. 'The men's decisions were informed largely by their wives.'

With Lady Emma out to destroy the House of Wessex, Harold comes to believe that taking power might be his only way of surviving. At the same time, Matilda stokes William's childhood memories in a bid to push him towards the throne.

'William had a pretty rough start in life,' reveals Coster-Waldau, 55. 'His father was killed early in his life, and by the age of 16 he'd had eight assassination attempts on his own life. Once the idea of pursuing the English crown comes into play, that ambition becomes all-consuming. For William, it's all about protection – he believes the more power he has, the safer his family will be.'

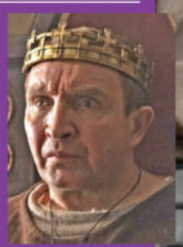
Lady Emma and Godwin

WHO'S WHO

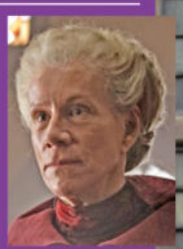


Edith
Emily Beecham
Harold's wife uncovers a plot by King Edward's mother Lady Emma to destroy the House of Wessex.

Matilda
Clémence Poésy
William's wife hails from a powerful family in Flanders and is ambitious for her husband.



Edward the Confessor
Eddie Marsan
The new King of England is unable to bring stability to his reign by producing an heir.



Lady Emma
Juliet Stevenson
King Edward's mother is determined that a child with Wessex blood will not ascend the throne.

Godwin, Earl of Wessex
Geoff Bell
Harold's father believes he has the trust of the royals and won't listen to his son's concerns.

SAXON SETTING

The action might take place in the south of England and Normandy, but King & Conqueror was mostly filmed at Hjallaflatir in the Heiðmörk Nature Reserve in Iceland.

The production team constructed a small village, with around 180 supporting artists and more than 50 horses employed for the biggest battle scenes.

Norton filming on location

'We spent a lot of time and attention making it feel as authentic as possible,' says Norton, who sometimes wore real chain mail for hours at a time. 'The mud and blood, the sweat and the tears – we didn't want it to feel like a pristine, precious period drama. We wanted it to feel gritty.'

CRIME of their lives

NEW FROM NETFLIX

A starry cast of veteran actors brings Richard Osman's murder mystery to Netflix

NEW DRAMA

The Thursday Murder Club

From Thu 28 August, Netflix

Ibrahim, Elizabeth and Ron investigate

When TV presenter Richard Osman's debut novel The Thursday Murder Club was published in 2020, it introduced readers to a quartet of shrewd crime-solving pensioners who could give Miss Marple a serious run for her money.

Now, the bestseller has been adapted into a star-studded Netflix film, directed by Chris Columbus and set at Coopers Chase luxury retirement home in the fictional Kent village of Fairhaven.

While many of the residents are kept busy with art classes, jigsaws, knitting circles and caring for the herd of llamas who graze in the grounds, forthright Elizabeth Best (Dame Helen Mirren), passionate ex-trade-union activist Ron Ritchie (Pierce Brosnan) and mild-mannered psychiatrist Ibrahim Arif (Sir Ben Kingsley) meet up each Thursday to try to crack unsolved crimes from the past. And they soon recruit a newcomer – kindly former nurse Joyce Meadowcroft (Celia Imrie) – to assist them with her medical knowledge.

The foursome are faced with a present-day mystery to unravel when it emerges that Coopers Chase's unscrupulous co-owner Ian Ventham (David Tennant) plans to redevelop the site and eject everyone who lives there. Amid the resulting furore, a brutal death occurs, and, as the body count rises, Elizabeth, Ron, Ibrahim and Joyce must use all of their detection skills to unmask a killer.

Here, Mirren, 80, and Brosnan, 72, recently seen as a married couple in gangster drama MobLand, reveal more about the film, which will also get a limited cinema release from Friday 22 August…

What drew you to the movie?

Brosnan Director Chris Columbus is an old pal of mine. We made Mrs Doubtfire [1994] and Percy Jackson & the Olympians: The Lightning Thief [2010] together – he seems to come around every 10 years or so with wonderful jobs for me. He sent me the script and I loved it.

Mirren I was one of the many millions who read the book and loved it. I couldn't put it down and was utterly charmed by it. Reading it, you do think, 'This could be a movie.' I could tell immediately the character that I would be most suitable for. And all my friends who read the book also said, 'If they ever make a movie, you have to play Elizabeth!'

Helen, how do you see Elizabeth?

Mirren She's tough, she's smart and she's witnessed some heavy-duty things. We can tell that she was someone powerful and substantial, but it's all a bit secret. Was she a high-level politician? Was she a high-level operative in MI5 or MI6? She never quite talks about it, but we get a sense…

And, Pierce, what do you make of your character Ron?

Brosnan Ron is a stout fellow of good character. He's very humorous and there's a certain theatricality to him. He doesn't particularly want to be at Coopers Chase but there's a time in life when you just have to hang up your spurs!

The film is wryly funny but it also takes a tender look at friendship and the challenges of ageing, doesn't it?

Mirren Yes, it's comedic, and it has a very gentle, British style of comedy. But it has these absolutely serious issues within it as well – the issues that you have to deal with the further you get into your life, such as the diminishing of your mind and your body. The murder mystery is the foundation, but the essence of it are these characters and the humanity of them.

Brosnan We do see the humanity

A former trade-union firebrand, the witty OAP has spent his life organising protests and possesses a strong sense of justice.

of age. Everyone can identify on some level. It's about joy, it's about the sorrow of life, the grief of life, the dreams and expectations that we have, the unexpected relationships that we make, and how we move on.

What do you hope viewers will take away from watching the movie?

Brosnan There are some wonderful set pieces. It is a very interesting screenplay because, in some regards, each scene is stand-alone, but you have a through line of character, emotion and connection within these people's lives.

Mirren I hope that viewers will be entertained, but I do hope they'll be moved a little, too.

WIN A COPY OF THE LAST DEVIL TO DIE

The Thursday Murder Club*, written by TV presenter Richard Osman, comes to Netflix from Thursday 28 August. To celebrate, we have 20 copies of the most recent novel in his series, The Last Devil to Die, to be won. To enter, answer this question:

EMMERDALE

Charity shares her baby secret with Vanessa

» Sarah is in seventh heaven, believing Charity is carrying her and Jacob's baby after stepping up to be their surrogate. But she has no idea that the nipper growing inside her granny may be the product of a drunken bunk-up that Charity had with Ross.

As Vanessa comforts her former partner over her split from Mackenzie, Charity crumbles and admits that 'Sarah's' baby may not be Sarah's after all. Ness assumes that Charity means the baby could be Mack's, and Charity doesn't correct her. The vet also calls for honesty, but Charity wants to keep quiet.

All the while, Ross is circling, desperate to know if his and Charity's son Moses is about to get a sibling. Charity lies that she has had a paternity test done that proves Sarah and Jacob are the parents, but he demands to see the evidence. And when she refuses to show it to him, he insists on doing his own test.

Change for life

Jamie Oliver's mouth-watering menu for healthy eating...

A variety of veg is a must

Oliver recommends experimenting with new flavours

NEW COOKERY

Jamie: Eat Yourself Healthy

Monday, 8pm, C4

We all know that eating well is a key ingredient towards healthy living, but sometimes that's easier said than done. Now, Jamie Oliver is here to help with his new five-part series on C4.

In Jamie: Eat Yourself Healthy, the chef shares delicious recipes, tips and shortcuts for a balanced diet, while working with health experts on everything from our immune systems to brain function.

Here, Oliver, 50, tells us more…

Why did you want to make this show? Many of us have good intentions to eat healthier, but life is busy. I want to prove that good nutrition can be simplified and is often cheaper, healthier and tastier than a takeaway. If you feel you could be healthier but you're not sure where to start, this is for you.

'Cooking is an act of self-love and you're worth looking after'

JAMIE OLIVER

You've studied nutrition formally, haven't you? Yes, around 10 years ago, I studied for a Royal Society for Public Health Level 4 Award in Nutrition at St Mary's University, Twickenham. I've been implementing what I've learnt in the work I've done since. Taste is at the forefront of everything I do, but good nutrition has always been behind the scenes.

What advice do you have for anyone considering a culinary health kick? Healthy eating really starts when we're shopping. Savvy shopping, smart cooking and a little bit of curiosity can make such a difference. We don't have to get it right all the time, but making good food choices more often has the potential to transform our lives. I have a whole host of helpful little swaps that will set you up for success in the kitchen.

What tips can you share? I'd say shortcut ingredients are your best friend – think frozen vegetables, tinned or jarred veggies, beans and pulses. And when it comes to veg and fruit, eat the rainbow to maximise your nutrients, vitamins and minerals.

Do you have favourite recipes from the programme? My chicken-and-berry grain bowl is packed with fibre, three of your 'seven a day', and backed up with blueberries and rice. It's a thing of joy. My chocolate-orange dessert pots feel indulgent, but are actually healthy. My wife Jools is a huge chocolate fan, so I had to get a cheeky recipe in there for her!

What do you hope viewers take away from watching? Small changes make a big difference. If you take away how to get your seven a day, I'll be delighted. Cooking is an act of self-love and you're worth looking after.

LOOK WHO'S BACK...

A familiar face appearing in a new role this week

Mary-Louise Parker

Elsbeth

Monday, 9pm, Sky Witness

Born in 1964 in South Carolina, Mary-Louise Parker made her name in 90s movies including Grand Canyon and Fried Green Tomatoes (inset). Her TV roles include political operative Amy Gardner in The West Wing, marijuana dealer Nancy Botwin in Weeds, plus parts in The Blacklist and Billions. Currently, she's starring in Stephen King adaptation The Institute on MGM+, as Ms Sigsby, who runs a facility that imprisons children with telepathic powers.

HER NEW ROLE

In this week's episode of Elsbeth, Hot Tub Crime Machine, Parker, 61, plays decluttering guru Freya Frostad, who bumps off her hubby Axel in a hot tub when she becomes jealous of his relationship with a younger woman, with whom they are involved with as a 'throuple'. As part of her investigation, Elsbeth (Carrie Preston) consults with Freya on the contents of her trademark tote bags, but will she discover that Freya has decluttered her life by murdering Axel?

Bettany Hughes reveals the desert tribe who shaped ancient history

Hughes heads into the desert

NEW DOCUMENTARY

Bettany Hughes' Lost Worlds: The Nabataeans

Saturday, 8.10pm, C4

For her latest series, historian, author and broadcaster Bettany Hughes is uncovering the mysteries and legacy of the Nabataeans, an extraordinary desert people who flourished in what is now Saudi Arabia between the 4th century BC and the 2nd century AD.

'The Nabataeans were hugely influential and were essentially the engine of ancient civilisation. They were originally desert nomads who became big innovators. They built the city of Petra and became very wealthy trading goods like incense and bitumen across Asia, Africa and Europe,' says Hughes.

'They were also great mariners. However, they have been largely written out of history. I wanted to make this series to write them back in and show just how important they were.'

The three-parter begins with Hughes in Hegra, Saudi Arabia, where, using the latest archaeological techniques, she reveals the secrets of a forgotten desert city that was once a bustling hub of Nabataean life.

LIFE AND DEATH

'One of my highlights was uncovering the tombs in Hegra where family groups had been buried together. It was the first time they'd been excavated, so to see those human remains coming out of the earth and learn about the Nabataeans' health and diets from forensic anthropologist Lauren Swift was fascinating.'

The opening episode also sees Hughes crossing the desert with a group of Bedouin who are descendants of the Nabataeans.

'The reason the Nabataeans became so rich is because they were the only people who could actually survive those long desert journeys and use camels to get goods delivered,' she explains.

Later in the series, Hughes visits the ancient city of Petra, the Nabataean capital, now in Jordan, and also travels to the Bay of Naples in Italy, where the Nabataeans had strong trade connections selling incense.

'They built a temple in Naples dedicated to their great sun god, Dushara, which is now submerged beneath the sea,' continues Hughes. 'I went diving down to the seabed to explore it. Seeing that underwater temple with its huge, beautiful altar was extraordinary.'

DCI Goodwin makes a tough call as the crime drama concludes

Star Terence Maynard

LAST ONE CRIME DRAMA

Ridley

Sunday, 8pm, & Monday, 9pm, ITV1

There's a double helping of Ridley this week as the second series comes to a close – and the first of the two feature-length episodes finds DCI Paul Goodwin in a difficult position when DI Carol Farman's son Jack becomes a key witness in a murder case.

'There's nothing Goodwin can do other than take Carol off the investigation,' reveals Terence Maynard, who plays the police chief. 'He's already short on manpower and she's the lead detective. But he's not afraid to make hard decisions for the benefit of everyone else.'

Fortunately, Carol (Bronagh Waugh) is back with Alex Ridley (Adrian Dunbar) and the team by Monday's season finale, which focuses on the disappearance of a local woman with bipolar. Young mum Tara Dunning (Emily Stott), who works part-time at a cafe owned by Celia (Maggie Steed), sparks concern when she fails to return home or turn up for work.

'It's a missing-person case that turns into a homicide case. It's a bit of a tragedy how this one evolves,' says Maynard.

The ex-Coronation Street actor recently appeared in The Bombing of Pan Am 103, and will soon be seen in ITV1's upcoming drama The Hack as well as NCIS spin-off NCIS: Tony & Ziva. Meanwhile, the star is hoping there will be a third series of Ridley.

'We're desperate to do a third run so that we can all be together again. We filmed the first series during the pandemic, and our bubble was the main cast. So, when we came back for the second series, we'd bonded so well. We've maintained that friendship off-camera, too, and had social occasions at our houses.

'I must confess that I've never watched Line of Duty, although my wife is a fan. When I told her I was going to be working with Adrian, she was beside herself.'

Dark Hearts

Sat, 9pm & 9.50pm, BBC4 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

The tense French-language action drama about a special-forces unit fighting in Iraq returns for a second six-part run. Picking up from the events of Season 1, when Group 45 commando Sab (Nina Meurisse) was captured while on a high-risk mission, the team is determined to rescue her from the hands of the escaped Zaid (Moussa Maaskri). But can Sab's comrades bring her home alive?

The Jury: Murder Trial

Tuesday-Friday, 9pm, C4

Stripped across four nights, the BAFTA-winning series returns with another re-creation of a real-life trial, as actors restage the court case and a jury of 12 ordinary people arrive at a verdict. This time, a young mother stands accused of murdering her boyfriend with a knife. Did she act in self-defence, as her legal team claims, or is she telling lies? And will the jury agree with the original trial's verdict?

Billy Connolly: Big Banana Feet

Tuesday, 9pm, BBC4

This behind-the-scenes look at comedian Sir Billy Connolly's 1975 tour of a politically volatile Ireland follows the Big Yin (right) on and off stage. After a limited cinema release in the 70s, the only copy of the film lay in a dusty archive and remained unseen until it was restored by the British Film Institute.

Music icons join forces with the biggest names in K-pop...

tv+ KPopped

NEW Available: Friday 29 August
Genre: Reality Season: 1 Episodes: 8

Get set for some K-pop magic in Apple TV+'s eight-part song-battle show KPopped, a brand-new concept that sees Western music legends team up with the biggest names in K-pop to reimagine their greatest hits in a series of musical showdowns.

Hosted by Gangnam Style singer Psy and Korean-American comedian Soojeong Son, the show features major chart-toppers like the Spice Girls' Mel B and Emma Bunton, Boy George, Jess Glynne and Kylie Minogue, as they team up with top-tier acts from the Korean music genre such as Itzy, Ateez and Kiss of Life with the aim of giving their biggest hits a fresh K-pop twist.

MUSICAL MAKEOVER

In each episode, they'll then perform their newly 'K-popped' songs in a music battle in front of an audience in Seoul, South Korea, who'll choose which song makes the best K-pop hit. And, of course, no K-pop performance is complete without all the dazzling dance moves!

The first episode features Grammy-winning American rapper Megan Thee Stallion and Patti LaBelle, AKA the 'godmother of soul', with all new remixes of Savage and Lady Marmalade. Meanwhile, Kesha, Vanilla Ice, Taylor Dayne and TLC will appear in other episodes alongside K-pop stars such as JO1, Kep1er and STAYC.

Here's our rundown of the most notable collaborations and the songs getting 'K-popped'...

The best of Netflix, Prime Video, Disney+ and more...

SEOUL STARS

Spice Girls (Wannabe)

Mel B and Emma Bunton create all-new remixes of two of their songs, Wannabe and Say You'll Be There, alongside fellow girl group Itzy.

Kylie Minogue (Can't Get You out of My Head)

Kylie's 2001 hit gets a new K-pop flavour as she teams up with Instagram-famous boy band Ateez.

Jess Glynne (Hold My Hand)

The British singer-songwriter joins forces with South Korean girl group Kiss of Life to write a K-pop version of her 2015 hit Hold My Hand.

Boy George (Karma Chameleon)

The 80s icon joins the all-girl group STAYC to take it up a notch with a new version of Culture Club's 1983 chart-topper.

Vanilla Ice (Ice Ice Baby)

The 1990 hit gets a K-pop makeover and a new dance routine in a collaboration between Vanilla Ice and seven-member girl group Kep1er.

Boyz II Men (End of the Road)

The American boy band's 1992 ballad gets a new sound from Blackswan, currently the only K-pop group with no Korean members.

Atom Eins (Adrian Edmondson)

Adrian Edmondson shows his dark side in the sci-fi thriller

Ground control

Boy Kavalier and Atom Eins

Disney+ Alien: Earth

Available: Wednesday 27 August Genre: Sci-fi
Season: 1 Episode: 4 (of 8)

Adrian Edmondson didn't need to be asked twice when he was approached about playing the menacing Atom Eins in Disney+'s sci-fi prequel series Alien: Earth.

'I was in my early 20s when I saw Alien in the cinema. There was a moment of incredible mass hysteria when everyone jumped up, and I lost my hat,' recalls Edmondson about his lifelong love of the space saga. 'It's exciting to be back in that world.'

SINISTER SIDEKICK

Since his introduction as the right-hand man for billionaire Boy Kavalier (Samuel Blenkin) at the Prodigy Corporation, Atom has remained an enigma. Last week, however, there were chilling glimpses into his psyche when he menacingly questioned childlike hybrids Slightly and Smee after their encounter with Morrow (Babou Ceesay), the cyborg security officer of the Maginot, a spaceship owned by rival company Weyland-Yutani that crashed on Prodigy territory.

Now, as the series continues, it's revealed just how much he's trusted by his arrogant boss, when Boy Kavalier seeks out Atom's opinion on his dangerous decision to transport Maginot's alien cargo to his high-security research island and experiment on the deadly extraterrestrials...

SPOILER ALERT!

'Boy Kavalier is this brainy tech-genius kid who is full of brilliant ideas, and Atom is his consigliere and Rottweiler enforcer,' explains the former The Young Ones star, whose sci-fi credits include Netflix series 3 Body Problem and Star Wars film The Last Jedi. 'He's half-diplomat, half-thug – no one gets away with anything when Atom is in the room.'

This week's episode also sees Boy Kavalier and Atom work together to try to control the relationship between hybrid Wendy (Sydney Chandler) and her human brother Hermit (Alex Lawther).

'Good sci-fi writing reflects what's happening now, and Alien: Earth deals with a lot of different synthetic forms of humanity including the most frightening element – the introduction of AI,' says Edmondson, 68, whose wife, comedian Jennifer Saunders, is also a big Alien fan.

'I have several reasons to keep the storyline a secret and one is because I don't want to spoil it for my wife. She likes horror and Alien is her favourite. It's the best monster ever created for film and TV.'

Rafael and Isabel team up to get answers

Search & rescue

Can two missing teens be found alive?

NETFLIX Two Graves

NEW Available: Friday 29 August Genre: Thriller
Season: 1 Episodes: 3

After playing criminal mastermind The Professor in five seasons of Netflix thriller Money Heist, Álvaro Morte is caught up in another high-octane drama in Spanish-language miniseries Two Graves.

Morte plays Rafael, the father of missing 16-year-old Marta, who teams up with grief-stricken grandmother Isabel (Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown's Kiti Mánver) when Marta and her friend, Isabel's granddaughter Verónica, vanish from their sleepy coastal town.

QUEST FOR VENGEANCE

When the police close the case after two fruitless years of investigations, due to a lack of any significant evidence or suspects, Isabel is determined to do whatever it takes to find out what happened to them, and joins forces with an equally vengeful Rafael.

She soon discovers that the two teenagers were last seen getting into a car after partying at a club, but as she carries out her own investigation into their disappearance, the body count grows as she resorts to increasingly violent means to uncover the truth.

'It is a revenge story led by a character rarely seen at the heart of a drama – a grandmother willing to do whatever it takes to seek justice for the loss of her granddaughter,' says creator Agustín Martínez. 'It's a thriller full of emotion and unexpected twists.'

A prequel series tells the backstory of Navy SEAL Ben Edwards

Rogue hero

prime The Terminal List: Dark Wolf

NEW Available: Wednesday 27 August
Genre: Thriller Season: 1 Episodes: 7
(first three episodes from 27 August, then weekly)

The 2022 action series The Terminal List saw traumatised Navy SEAL James Reece (Marvel star Chris Pratt) set out to avenge the deaths of his comrades after a military mission he was leading in Syria was compromised.

This prequel spin-off winds back the clock to when Ben Edwards (Waco's Taylor Kitsch) was working alongside James in Syria. Fans of the original will know that Ben was at the heart of a huge plot twist at the end of the series, and in Dark Wolf we find out exactly what brought James' friend and confidant to that explosive conclusion.

'This is the origin story that gets us to that point,' explains Kitsch, 44. 'There was so much heat around Ben with that twist, and all these questions. You're going to learn a heck of a lot more about who Ben really is.'

SLIDING-DOORS MOMENT

Kitsch adds that a particularly decisive point in Ben's journey in Dark Wolf is the opening mission in which he seriously oversteps the mark, leading him to leave the Navy SEALs to undertake clandestine ops for the CIA.

'One split-second decision changed the course of his life,' says Kitsch. 'You're not only stripping the bird off his chest [the symbol on the Navy SEALs' insignia], but you're also stripping away a piece of who this guy is and his purpose.'

Dark Wolf also features the return of James' comrade Ernest 'Boozer' Vickers (Jared Shaw), as well as the addition of Westworld's Luke Hemsworth as CIA contractor Jules Landry and The Umbrella Academy's Tom Hopper as Lieutenant Raife Hastings.

Kitsch and Tom Hopper

A fan of the Jack Carr books that the series is based on, Hopper, 40, says he was seriously impressed by the attention to detail in the military-based prequel.

'We had so many guys that served, active and retired, as part of the production team,' he says. 'You can't do better than that for authenticity.'

Inferno at sea

NEW FACTUAL

Disaster at Sea: The Piper Alpha Story

Monday, 9pm, BBC2 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

On the night of 6 July 1988 at 10pm, a catastrophic explosion rocked Piper Alpha, an oil-rig platform in the North Sea about 120 miles off Aberdeen. The raging inferno claimed the lives of 167 men who were working on the rig that night. Only 61 survived.

Now, BBC2's three-part documentary Disaster at Sea: The Piper Alpha Story looks back at what caused the world's deadliest offshore oil disaster and explores its ongoing impact on both survivors and loved ones.

'It was early in the morning and me and my daughters were still in bed when there was a knock at the door,' recalls Fiona, whose husband Frank Miller died in the tragedy.

she said there had been an explosion on the rig. I turned on the news on the telly and that's when it hit me. I just screamed. Later, two policemen came to say Frank was missing, but the more that time went on, I knew he wasn't coming home.'

MULTIPLE ERRORS

Using testimony from survivors given in the months following the catastrophe, the series reveals that the rig's sprinkler system failed, there were no tannoy announcements, no evacuation plans, and rescue helicopters couldn't land on the helipad due to dense smoke.

Amid panic and confusion, many workers were forced to jump around 150ft from the platform into the sea below to escape the intense heat. Of the 167 who perished, most died from smoke inhalation.

Meanwhile, those who survived were left traumatised. The documentary also hears from Rachel, whose father Geoff Bollands suffered with severe PTSD and survivor's guilt, and Marc, whose father Mark Reid escaped the inferno, only to die following a struggle with alcoholism, aged 48.

A public inquiry discovered the cause of the blaze was a leak of highly flammable condensate. Piper Alpha's operator Occidental was officially found to have inadequate maintenance and safety procedures, but no criminal charges were ever brought.

'Hundreds of things went wrong – that rig should never have been operating,' says Fiona. 'Frank was 33 and had his whole life ahead of him. I just hope his death was quick.'

Cameras uncover Norwich Castle's restoration project

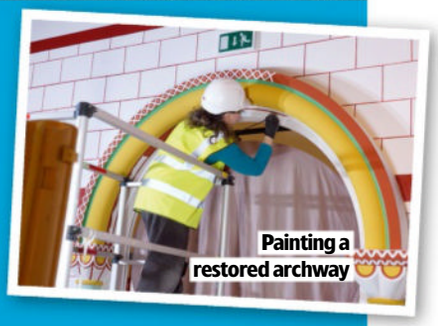
NEW FACTUAL

The Castle: Rebuilding History

Sunday, 7.30pm, C4



Painting a restored archway

One of the UK's most spectacular landmarks gets a makeover in a one-off documentary chronicling the restoration of Norwich Castle's 12th-century Norman keep.

Narrated by Sir Stephen Fry and shot over seven years, it follows an ambitious £28 million project to transform the 900-year-old keep to its former grandeur, while preserving its rich history.

First established by William the Conqueror and expanded by his son, the once-royal palace was completed in 1121, but served as a county gaol from the mid-14th century, before the Victorians turned it into a museum in the 1890s.

As a team of archaeologists, engineers and historians breathe new life into ancient stonework, can they transform the Grade I-listed keep into an accessible tourist destination?

'We want to show just how wonderful this building was when it was first built,' says senior curator of archaeology Dr Tim Pestell. 'But it's nerve-racking seeing big steel beams swinging around. My chief concern is that it will knock into the Norman walling and damage it.

'We're also drilling through dungeon walls, and when you're cutting steel in a historic building, it generates heat and you have to be careful that you don't end up with a Notre Dame [fire] on your hands.'

Experts examine a medieval tapestry

The epic project involves tunnelling through 3m-thick walls, reinstating the principal floor, installing a glass atrium and roof terrace, plus creating a chapel, king's chamber and a great hall, all with authentic furniture and textiles.

Work begins in the basement, where some interesting discoveries are unearthed.

'In all the animal bones, we found classic high-status food like rabbit and deer, but also porpoise bone,' says Pestell. 'You don't think of people having a slap-up feast of porpoise, but we have the evidence.'

MOVIE OF THE WEEK

David Corenswet is the Man of Steel in this packed and exciting reboot

SUPERMAN

SUPERHERO

From Tuesday to buy or rent from digital stores, including Prime Video and Sky Store

The latest reboot for the iconic superhero skips all the familiar origins stuff and throws us in the midst of the plot. It's a daring storytelling choice by writer-director James Gunn. After a series of scene-setting captions telling us that Superman (David Corenswet) has just suffered his first defeat (offscreen), we open in the Arctic and find a thoroughly battered Superman taking refuge in his Fortress of Solitude.

He needs to recover his strength quickly in order to foil the nefarious schemes of megalomaniac tech billionaire Lex Luthor (Nicholas Hoult), who is whipping up a media storm to turn the world against Superman while simultaneously stirring conflict between neighbouring countries Boravia and Jarhanpur.

There are some interesting ideas and up-to-the-minute resonances here, even if too much of the ensuing action is taken up with over-extended slugfests. The flirtatious play between Superman and intrepid Daily Planet reporter Lois Lane (Rachel Brosnahan) is wonderful – although there's not enough of it – with the stars perfect fits for their roles. Although casual viewers will be left longing for the playful innocence of the 1978 Christopher Reeve classic, after the glum Henry Cavill take on the character this is the Superman film fans have been crying out for – and Gunn certainly delivers. 2025, 12, 129MIN

CRIME THRILLER

Night Call

Sunday, 9.50pm, Sky Premiere ★★★★

Set over a single night in Brussels, Belgium, this cracking, sweaty thriller sees 24-hour locksmith Jonathan Feltre fall foul of a drug cartel, led by a quietly malevolent Romain Duris. Tricked by Natacha Krief into breaking into a criminal's apartment so she can steal the swag inside, Feltre has until the end of the night to retrieve the money or end up dead. It's a blistering tour-de-force through Brussels' backstreets as Feltre must evade the crooks and the cops, while also utilising his skills as a locksmith. Writer-director Michiel Blanchart's movie may not be doing anything we haven't seen before, but he injects a kinetic energy into the action that propels it brilliantly. He's helped by Feltre, who's a thoroughly believable everyman – he's simply at the wrong place at the wrong time. 2024, 15, 97MIN

Barbie

On now, Prime Video ★★★★

Living a perfect life, Barbie (Margot Robbie) suddenly has thoughts of death and must go into the real world to put things right, with lovesick Ken (Ryan Gosling) tagging along. She finds a horrifying realm where men rule, while Ken disastrously takes the idea back home... Can Barbie (with America Ferrara and daughter Ariana Greenblatt) save her world? Director and co-writer Greta Gerwig's sophisticated satire is hilarious, cutting and emotional. Robbie is sensational and so is Gosling, getting most of the best gags, certainly the best song and an emotional arc as acute as Barbie's. Helen Mirren's arch voiceover raises the laughs and, among a stellar cast, Kate McKinnon has a riot as Weird Barbie. 2023, 12, 114MIN

ANIMATION

The Bad Guys 2

From Monday to buy or rent from digital stores ★★★★

Smart, zippy and full of breezy silliness, this sequel to the animated movie about a heist-pulling gang of animals is great fun. Taking inspiration again from Ocean's Eleven, the new movie sees the dapper Mr Wolf (voiced by Sam Rockwell channelling George Clooney) and his rascally chums try to go straight but find themselves framed for a crime they didn't commit. With terrific vocal talents from the likes of Rockwell, Awkwafina and Richard Ayoade, this nimbly juggles gags for kids with clever film references for grown-ups. 2025, PG, 104MIN

Trolls Band Together

From Wednesday, Netflix ★★★

Small kids will be happily rapt, if slightly bemused, by this wisecracking, candy-coloured threequel, which whisks excitable Poppy (voiced by Anna Kendrick) and grumpy Branch (Justin Timberlake) on a high-energy, life-or-death quest to reunite his broken family boyband, BroZone. Trippy visuals and sly boyband gags ('We've gone from boys to men!') make it a fun, if rather frantic outing for adults. Top marks for Kendrick's peppy vocals, rather fewer for NSYNC's bland new 'reunion' title track (they're not willing to say Bye, Bye, Bye, apparently...). 2023, U, 91MIN

A very animated Middle-Earth...

ANIMATION

The Lord of the Rings: The War of the Rohirrim

Friday, 9.45am & 5.45pm, Sky Premiere ★★★★

A story pulled from the appendices of JRR Tolkien's The Lord of the Rings, this takes place 200 years before hobbit Bilbo Baggins even found a certain ring. Produced by Peter Jackson (who directed the original epic live-action trilogy), The War of the Rohirrim may be an anime cartoon, but it very much sits at home in the Middle-Earth world created by him.

The film revolves around headstrong princess Héra (voiced by Gaia Wise) who's proud, stubborn father, King Helm (Brian Cox), unwisely goes into battle against a bitter upstart he previously banished, Wulf (Luke Pasqualino). Seeing the battle is lost, Héra evacuates the city and retreats with her people to a keep called Hornburg as Wulf lays seige.

This tale may be little more than a footnote in The Lord of the Rings saga, but it's a fine, rugged story, leaning into classic themes such as honour, family, the cost of war and the futility of revenge. The voice cast are uniformly excellent, but it's the terrific animation that ties everything together, with hand-drawn characters blending seamlessly with the CGI landscapes. 2024, 12, 134MIN

Mark Ruffalo's washed-up music exec hooks up with Keira Knightley's wary singer-songwriter to make sweet music in this utterly charming comedy drama. All at sea in New York, the emotionally bruised pair meet at an open-mic night, where Knightley is performing, and Ruffalo talks her into recording her music with him. The songs, performed with soulful sweetness by Knightley, slowly sink their hooks into you, just like the film itself. 2013, 15, 104MIN

Jeff Bridges is scintillating as a boozed-out, burnt-out country singer who gets a second chance thanks to the combined efforts of the young country singer (Colin Farrell) for whom he writes songs, the Santa Fe reporter (Maggie Gyllenhaal) he falls in love with and his good ol' boy club-owner buddy (Robert Duvall). Director Paul King's light touch ensures this is a vibrant, playful delight and Chalamet charmingly makes his gentle character his own (though some may complain he's too benign), bonding generously with the winning Lane. $85 MILLION

The 2025 US Open will be the richest tennis event in history. This year, prize money increases to around $85 million (£64 million) – the most lucrative Grand Slam by some distance – with winners of the singles each receiving $5 million.

22 Number of years since an American (Andy Roddick) last won the men's singles title on home soil. That could change this year with both Taylor Fritz and Ben Shelton in the Top 10 rankings. Fritz made the final at Flushing Meadows in 2024 and narrowly lost in the Wimbledon semi-finals to Carlos Alcaraz in July.

Scotland's Helen Nelson in action

LIVE RUGBY UNION

Scotland v Wales

Saturday, kick-off 2.45pm, BBC1

As the Women's Rugby World Cup gets under way in earnest, the pick of the opening fixtures is this home-nations Pool B clash at the Salford Community Stadium. With Canada favourites to top the group, the result could prove vital as both sides bid to make the quarter-finals. Scotland have won the last three meetings between the nations, most recently taking the honours in a close Six Nations clash in Edinburgh in March when Helen Nelson kicked nine points. 'What a game this will be,' says BBC pundit and former England coach Simon Middleton. 'Both sides will deem it a failure if they don't get out of the group, so there's everything to play for.' Also this week, Ireland begin their Pool C campaign against Japan in Northampton (Sun, k-o 12noon, BBC2).

Pole-vaulter Mondo Duplantis

LIVE ATHLETICS

Diamond League final

Wednesday & Thursday, BBC2

The track-and-field series comes to a close in Zurich, where all 32 disciplines will be contested over two days. For the first time, the winners of eight of the most popular events will receive increased prize money, including in the men's pole vault, where Sweden's world champion and Olympic gold medallist Mondo Duplantis will be out to break his own world record of 6.29m. Other Paris 2024 champions taking part include Kenya's Emmanuel Wanyonyi in the men's 800m.

Contender Jonas Vingegaard

LIVE CYCLING

Vuelta a España

From Saturday, TNT Sports 1 & TNT Sports 3

With 10 summit finishes, the 2025 Tour of Spain favours the climbers, including Denmark's Jonas Vingegaard, who is seeking to win the Grand Tour for the first time. This year marks the 80th edition of the three-week race, with the opening stages being held in Italy as the riders begin with a 183km route from Torino-Venaria Reale to Novara, before the race concludes on Sunday 14 September in Madrid. Tour de France winner Tadej Pogacar is skipping the event to focus on the UCI Road World Championships next month, but the field includes Britain's Tom Pidcock, who won his second European mountain-bike cross-country title in July.

Argentina's Tomás Albornoz

LIVE RUGBY UNION

Rugby Championship

Saturday, Sky Sports Action & Sky Sports+

In the second round's repeat fixtures, champions South Africa host Australia in Cape Town (k-o 4.10pm, Sky Sports Action), while Argentina take on New Zealand in Buenos Aires (k-o 10.10pm, Sky Sports+). Los Pumas have been inconsistent since finishing third in the 2024 Rugby Championship, but beat the Lions in Dublin in June, including a try from Tomás Albornoz.

Frauds

FIRST LOOK

Suranne Jones and Jodie Whittaker headline a Spain-set heist drama

The con is on in ITV1's upcoming thriller Frauds, which sees a pair of criminals reunite to attempt to carry out a risky theft.

In the six-part series, airing later this year, Suranne Jones portrays confidence trickster Bert, who has spent 10 years in a Spanish prison – but she has now been released on compassionate grounds.

Bert is soon reunited with her old partner in crime, Sam (Jodie Whittaker), who is living a quiet life in southern Spain. But Bert wants to accomplish one last job – a lucrative art heist – and she attempts to convince Sam to come out of retirement and join her. As the duo's complex past emerges, Sam must work out whether she can really trust her scheming pal…

Sam and Bert

WILD RIDE

Karan Gill plays forger Bilal, while Christian Cooke is moneylender Deegs, and Elizabeth Berrington, Kate Fleetwood, Talisa Garcia, Nansi Nsue, Lee Boardman, Abdul Salis, Thais Martin and Javier Taboada round out the cast.

'Working on Frauds has been a wild ride,' says Jones, who has also co-created the drama. 'We took the idea of toxic female friendship and turned it on its head to give the heist genre an emotional heartbeat. I have always wanted to work with Jodie. I hope you love Bert and Sam and all they get up to as much as we do.'

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Daniel Mays

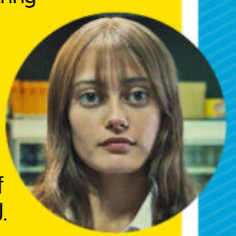
The actor will play cab driver and sex attacker John Worboys in ITV1's true-crime drama Believe Me, which follows several women who Worboys assaulted as they fight to be heard. Aimee-Ffion Edwards co-stars.

Gary Lineker

In ITV1's game show The Box, the presenter will oversee proceedings as famous faces are taken to mystery locations in yellow boxes, before the doors are opened and they tackle challenges to avoid elimination.

Coming Back

Filming is under way on the return of Sky Atlantic's comic thriller Sweetpea, centring on murderous wallflower Rhiannon (Ella Purnell, right). Tamsin Greig joins the cast as Liv, the mother of Rhiannon's ex AJ.



Monica Dolan will appear in the second run of BBC3's comedy Smoggie Queens, which follows a group of Middlesbrough LGBTQ+ friends. This time around, the gang tackle new relationships and revive old ones.

Spirit of the Moon & Stars

Ladies' Diamond Pendant

Genuine Diamond

18-Carat Gold Plating & Rhodium Plating

Genuine Svenka™ Crystals

Glittering 1-pt Diamond

The wild wolf moves gracefully under a moonlit sky where stars shimmer and the Aurora Borealis dances with colour. Guided by the celestial canopy, she moves with quiet grace and unwavering confidence. Inspired by nature's powerful symbols of inner clarity, independence and beauty, The Bradford Exchange presents the 'Spirit of the Moon & Stars' Wolf Diamond Pendant – a mastercrafted exclusive honouring the strength and serenity within.

Handcrafted with 18-carat gold and rhodium plating, Svenka™ crystals, and a genuine diamond

This handcrafted pendant is a stunning tribute to the wonders of the natural world. The silhouette of the wild wolf is sculpted in bas relief and finished in rich rhodium platinum plating. Her portrait of gentle strength is embraced by a protective crescent moon, plated in warm 18-carat gold and adorned with sparkling Svenka™ crystals in the iridescent hues of the Aurora Borealis. The pendant back is expertly engraved with the sentiment: Spirit of the Moon & Stars. A genuine diamond set into the bale adds a final touch of brilliance, while a sterling silver chain completes this jewellery presentation.
